About Tsunami Hazard Map

This map shows tsunami disaster warning areas, inundation start times, tsunami evacuation buildings, etc., as designated by Aichi Prefecture in July 2019, based on the "tsunami inundation simulation" emitted by the prefecture in November 2014. This hazard map was created assuming a large scale tsunami that only occurs once every 1,000 years (or less frequently) hits the city. We could expect extensive damage in the event of this kind of tsunami.

List of evacuation buildings for tsunami disasters in Nagoya City

Legend

Tsunami evacuation buildings (Designated Emergency Evacuation Shelters for tsunami) are marked with a red dot. These are temporary evacuation sites in case of a tsunami warning or major tsunami warning is issued and you have no high ground nearby.

Areas subject to evacuate in advance are marked with a yellow background. Areas that will be flooded by 30 cm or more within 30 minutes of the earthquake due to levee subsidence caused by seismic motion, since flood-affected areas increase with time, residents are asked to evacuate as soon as possible in the event of a disaster.

Secwall is marked with a dashed line. Facilities to prevent damages from tsunami, storm surge and other disasters.

Ward office is marked with a circle. Branch is marked with a triangle. Fire station is marked with a star.
